King George, Stuart Scott Schools Architect Dies

O. E. TENCH BUILT SEVERAL FACTORY BUILDINGS IN NEWMARKET

Well-known Newmarket citizen, Oliver E. Tench died at his home, Queen St. E., in his 83rd year on Tuesday. Rev. J. A. Koffend will conduct funeral services at the family residence Friday afternoon, with interment in Newmarket cemetery.

Born in King township, he was the son of Jane Shanks and Charles Edgar Tench. His father, whose family came to King township from Pennsylvania, was of U.E.L. stock. His father operated a sawmill at Poitagsville.

He came to Newmarket as a young man and worked at Cane's factory. Subsequently he was in Caledon East for a couple of years and married Isabella Potter of Caledon. Then he returned to Newmarket and Cane's.

Later he studied privately to become an architect, and turned to that profession. He drew the plans and supervised construction of the main buildings of the Office Specialty Co. and the Davis Leather Co. and was also

SCOUTS MAKE $122 ON "APPLE DAY"

The Boy Scout and Wolf Cub "Apple Day" on Saturday was a huge success. So much so that the boys went over the top and passed last year's mark. They raised $152.67 in the tag and cleared $122.07. Last year they cleared $115.

The older Scouts were at the factories as early as 6.30 a.m. The Wolf Cubs had a little more sand to rub out of their eyes than the Scouts, but they were on the job bright and early, too, and worked hard until 6 o'clock at night.

The two highest Scouts and the two highest Cubs will receive prizes. The figures for the top taggers were as follows: Scouts, Tom Dales, $15.16; Don Cockburn, $12.09; Clyde Adams, $8.56; Fred Cuse, $6; Ned Skeed, $5.47; Orla Larsen, $4.60; Cubs, Peter White, $5.28; Dan Bovair, $5.21; Kenneth Hunter, $5.07; Billy Kench, $3.06; Brian Binns, $3.52; John Marwood, $3.17.

This is the third consecutive year that Scout Tom Dales has won highest honors.

All the Scouts and Cubs worked hard to put the drive over the top. The Cubs tied 3,000 tags on their meeting night and the Scouts polished and packed 20 bushels of apples. It's a lot of work, but the boys delight in doing it cheerfully.

The leaders deserve great credit for they were on the job all day as cashiers. They are Bill Revill, Clark Hill, Jack Revill, Scoutmaster Victor Higginson, Bill Denne, Scout Mike McCaffrey and Cubmaster Jack Hamilton, the chairman.

The Scouts and Cubs were grateful to the people of the town for their splendid support.

MAY MEAN YES BUT YOU STILL VOTE NO

To make sure that everyone understands the meaning of the question on the ballot concerning beer and wine will be one of the most important jobs of the Newmarket Citizens' League, stated Dr. S. J. Boyd, the president, at a meeting in the Friends church on Tuesday evening.

"The question is so worded that moderate drinkers who are opposed to the establishment of beverage rooms might easily not vote as they intended to do," said Dr. Boyd. "The question on the ballot is: 'Are you in favor of the sale of beer and wine under the provisions of the Liquor Control Act?'"

"The man who uses beer is in favor of the sale of beer and wine under the provisions of the Liquor Control Act but he must vote 'No' if he is opposed to beer rooms. The question on the ballot, you will observe, makes no mention of beverage rooms. It is so worded as to favor those who sell beer, and to mislead people who do not think carefully before voting."

From 100 to 200 names have probably been left off at the voters' list, and will be put on at the court of revision, Fred Chantler said that meeting. Mr. Chantler said that people should be urged to check the voters' list themselves for their own names. Copies were to be seen in the post office, the schools, and the town clerk's office.

W. H. Eves, treasurer, reported that about $80 had been deposited to the credit of the organization, and that other contributions would be welcomed. Secretary Wesley Brooks was complimented by Dr. Boyd on the skill and care with which he was keeping the organization's records.

Reserve Units Plan Gala Sports Night

The five reserve units at Fort York Armories are uniting to hold a monster Fort York sports night on Saturday evening.

It is the first time the units have combined in a joint enterprise since the outbreak of the war. Each unit is entering picked platoons to be judged for precision drill and general smartness. Lieut. J. Woodbridge is in charge of the platoon from the Queen's York Rangers. Brigadier General C. F. Constantine, the district officer commanding, will inspect these platoons. Then sections from each unit will enter an obstacle race, in which steel helmets, full pack, respirators and fixed bayonets will be featured as the men battle their way through barricades, doing anti-aircraft and anti-gas movements at the same time.

The Royal Canadian Engineers and the Canadian Women's Service Force will each give a special display. Boxing bouts to decide the garrison championship will be held with Bob Bonville, well-known York county athlete, being one of those entered. A dance and refreshments will bring the evening to a close.

Prizes have been donated by the five officers in command, Col. D. H. C. Mason of the Royal Regiment, Lieut.-Col. John Hyde Bennett of the Queen's Yorks, Lieut. Col. T. F. Howlett of the Royal Canadian Engineers, Lieut.-Col. W. B. Hamby of the Toronto Scottish regiment, and

MRS. WM. CARLEY DIES, LIVED HERE 20 YEARS

A resident of Newmarket for the last 20 years, Jennie Kaiser Carley, wife of William B. Carley, died at St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, on Saturday after an illness of ten weeks. She was in her 56th year.

Jennie Kaiser was born in Maple, Vaughan township, and was the daughter of Hannah Boddy Kaiser and Joshua Kaiser of Maple. She lived in Maple until about 38 years ago, when she married William B. Carley of King City.

They lived in King City for some years, where Mr. Carley helped in his father's store. Later they moved to Toronto, to West Lorne, to Aurora, and 20 years ago to Newmarket, where they had lived since.

Mrs. Carley's great interest was in her home and family. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Trooper Dudley Carley, with the Canadian forces in England, and Frank Carley, Newmarket; one daughter, Mrs. John Furness (May), Toronto, and two grand-children.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at the funeral chapel of Roadhouse and Rose by Rev. Dr. A. E. Runnells and at King cemetery by Rev. J. Galloway. Pallbearers were: Thos. ## PUPILS HELP TO KEEP GROUNDS NICE AT MODERN, ATTRACTIVE, TWO-ROOM SCHOOL

In the village of Holland Landing, situated on the banks of the Holland River, is to be found one of the finest rural schools in southern Ontario.

It is a two-roomed brick building set in the midst of the village, just far enough from the Barrie-Toronto highway to make studying ideal.

This school is kept up to full efficiency by a most capable board of trustees, consisting of G. B. Thompson, chairman; S. C. Sheppard, R. Watson and R. U. Tate, secretary-treasurer. Clarence Fawcett, who is the caretaker, does his work well and takes a keen interest in the school.

Attractive flower-beds, walks and lawns to an outsider appear to be a big job to care for but with careful planning on the part of teacher, board and pupils, it can be done. Much of this work is carried on in school hours in conjunction with the subject of agriculture, sub-topic of which is landscape gardening.

Wm. Blackshaw, the principal, states that the children, as well as he himself, give up part of recess periods toward the beautifying of the grounds.

Inside are to be seen modern classrooms which are redecorated from time to time. The school is equipped with Hydro,

Driver Thought There Must Be Some Mistake When He Learned That It Was The Parsonage

It happened some time ago, but it is still tellable.

Looking out the window, Rev. Arthur Greer, pastor of the Christian-Congregational church, saw a brewery truck stop in front of the parsonage and the driver start up to the house with a parcel.

"Here comes the beer," he remarked to his wife. "The what?" demanded Mrs. Greer. "Well, it looks like beer," said Mr. Greer. And so it was. "Is that for me?" he asked the driver.

"I guess it is, sir," was the reply. "Isn't this 158 Main St.?" "Yes, it is."

"It's for you all right, then." "This is the first beer we have ever had delivered to the parsonage."

"The what?" "The parsonage."

"Isn't this 158 Main St.?" "Yes, but it is still the parsonage."

"Excuse me. It's my mistake." And away went beer and driver.

Veteran's 1918 Friend Now Flies Atlantic For Britain

MAKES SHORT VISIT TO NEWMARKET TO VISIT H. E. GILROY

Gordon Gray, of London, England, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gilroy for a few days this week. Mr. Gilroy became acquainted with Mr. Gray when overseas during the last war. Mr. Gray has been in the United States on British government work and will fly back to Britain next week.

Mr. Gray's work has to do with the planes which the United States is shipping to Britain, and which Britain is using to wrest superiority in European skies from the Nazis.

WAS PIONEER RESIDENT OF JACKSON'S POINT

A pioneer resident of Jackson's Point district, Duncan Munro King died at his home there last Thursday. Mr. King was born at Napanee, but had resided at Jackson's Point for 35 years. He was in his 90th year.

A staunch Liberal, he took an active part in provincial and federal political campaigns. He was a member of Keswick United church.

Mr. and Mrs. King celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last year.

Surviving besides his wife are two sons, John and Angus. The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon at Keswick United church.

Interment was in Queensville cemetery.

Over $735 was recovered by the bureau last month for mothers and wives who had been imposed upon in this way.

HITLER WILL FAIL, BELIEVES WYCLIFFE MAN

TRUE LIFE OF SPIRIT CAN'T BE DESTROYED, SPEAKER TELLS LIONS

IS LIONS' GUEST

"Hitler is only doing in a more thorough and complete way what most of us have been doing in the past," declared Prof. B. W. Horan of Wycliffe College, University of Toronto, in an address before the Lions club at the King George hotel on Monday evening.

Prof. Horan said that Hitler was trying to destroy the better life but that he would not succeed because this "life that we feel" lies within men, implanted there by God.

President W. M. Cockburn was in the chair. Rev. A. J. Forte, Rochie's Point, Rev. A. J. Patstone, Rev. J. A. Koffend, Rev. Burton Hill and Rev. Arthur Greer were guests of the club. Other clergymen were unable to be present for the Thanksgiving meeting.

"The Two Lives," was Prof. Horan's subject.

"Some years ago I visited Palestine," said Prof. Horan. "I found that the holy land was far from holy. The holy land is disappointing. Why do we call this land holy?"

"It is because there once lived in that land the choicest human spirit, one who was good, upright and pure to an extent that was unknown to man. The spirit of Jesus has largely fled from that land. It has found a resting-place in the hearts of men in all countries."

"We are confronted with two lives: the life that we see and the life that we feel."

"The life we see is a harsh life, a selfish life, an acquisitive life. It is dominated by the competitive spirit."

"I suppose that there is some excuse for it. It is a world governed by the law of high finance. Few of us understand high finance but we know that we must abide by its decrees. And then there is the economic law. Few of us understand it, but we must abide by it. And then there is the peculiar law of high diplomacy."

"The visible world which we see is a prison house, and we are abject slaves. The fittest survives only to be a slave."

"Then there is the life we feel. We all feel that we want to be friendly. We all admire the generous spirit. We take off our hats to the man who gives his time and his life to his neighbors."

"If you want to find a strong sense of fellowship you will find it when the clouds are dark."

"We say that the life we see is the real life, but the real life, the life we are meant to live, is the life we feel."

"There is a determined attempt today to destroy the life we feel. The attempt is being made in every country, but it is being made with exhaustive energy in Germany."

"Hitler is only doing in a more thorough and complete way what most of us have been doing in the past."

"I'm sure he won't succeed. He may succeed for a short time, but the life we feel will never be destroyed, because it is deep within us. It comes to us from God himself, and it is my belief that it will never perish from the earth."

"The life we feel, the Christian life, the spiritual life, the life we know in our heart of hearts to be the true life, may be eclipsed but it will never be destroyed. It will revive."

MEET AGAIN ON 28TH

The next meeting of the Newmarket Citizens' League to oppose the establishment of beverage rooms in Newmarket will take place on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at the Friends church.

WHITCHURCH TOWNSHIP SNOW SHOVELLING AS USUAL, REEVE THINKS

Bruce W. Hunter informed Whitchurch township council in session on Saturday concerning an alleged bad condition on the roadway adjacent to Newmarket. This piece of road, said Mr. Hunter, "is about 250 feet long and badly in need of repair. It was built at no cost to the township, and we feel the least the council can do is to supply a few loads of gravel."

Saturday's session of council was extremely quiet. Reeve Earl Toole presided, and inquired about total expenditures on roads so far this year. He was told that there had been $18,000 expended, leaving about $2,000 appropriated for this work.

"We will have to go very carefully and make only repairs that are absolutely necessary, otherwise we will overrun the budget," said Mr. Toole.

H. H. Mitchell, Musselman's Lake, strongly protested at the September meeting about the alleged action of a poundkeeper in freeing cattle to their owner without collecting the bill for damages owing Mr. Mitchell. The solicitor's opinion was given on the matter on Saturday to the effect that Mr. Mitchell should sue the owner of the stock for damages.

The solicitor also advised the council on the question of building a hard-top road around Musselman's Lake. He stated that the road could only be built and charged to the ratepayers around the lake under by-law, but that no subsidy could be collected if constructed in this manner. The information will be passed on to the Ratepayers' Association, who sought advice from the council on the matter.

On motion of Deputy-Reeve George Leary and Councillor Eugene Baker, a resolution was introduced and carried asking the game warden in the township to form themselves into an association for the regulating and handling of the game regulations, particularly as it relates to pheasant hunting. The wardens consist of all road foremen and their helpers.

Before adjournment Reeve Toole put at rest many fears that there would be no snow shovelling done this winter.

"It was news to me to hear that the council contemplated such a step and it has never even been considered," said the Reeve. The yarn probably arose from the discussions on gasoline curtailment.

Mutton-eating dogs did considerable damage in September among the sheep fold of North Whitchurch. Dr. C. J. Devins was awarded $45 for four killed, Edward Bree $16 for one killed and two injured, and John Crawford $75 for six killed. Sheep Valuator J. A. Clark valued the dead animals.

Relief for September totalled only $57.13, and hospitalization $52.12.

Grants were made to Whitchurch veterans for $10 for a wreath at the cenotaph and $25 to the North York Ploymen.

Councillor Herbert Wells was absent from the meeting, and Councillor E. Logan asked to be excused at 2 o'clock to attend to other pressing business, to wit a wedding.

WORKED IN TANNERY 27 YEARS, HEART FAILS

An employee of the Davis Leather Co. for the past 27 years, Harry R. Smith died on Saturday in his 47th year.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Runnells conducted the funeral service at Roadhouse and Rose funeral chapel on Monday. Interment was in Newmarket cemetery.

Mr. Smith suffered a heart attack and died within a few minutes. A brother, Thomas, is on the staff of the Newmarket military camp.

He was boarding at the home of Arthur Pegg, 12 Ontario St. E., at the time of his death. His wife and family are living in St. Marys. His wife was the former Gertrude Gould. He also leaves two sons and a daughter, Earl, George and Audrey.

Besides the brother at the military camp there also survive a brother, Ira, Aurora, a sister, Mrs. Wm. Atkinson, Aurora, and a brother, Robert, Barrie.

BREAKS ARM

Bruce Burch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burch, Andrew St., broke his arm on Monday when he was thrown from his bicycle when he ran over a dog.

Newmarket People Asked To Lend To Canada For Britain

Town Asked To Double War Savings Purchases, Records Show Town Slipping Little From Pledge

Newmarket starts out next week in an effort to lend the government enough money monthly, through war savings certificates, to buy two universal carriers.

That means doubling Newmarket's war savings certificates purchases. Newmarket pledged $7,000 a month at the time of the spring campaign. This gradually dwindled until at the present time monthly purchases are only $5,000.

Joint chairmen of Newmarket's war savings committee, P. J. Tod and W. L. Bosworth ask all citizens to co-operate in increasing their pledges and their savings to ensure and speed victory. Mr. Tod and Mr. Bosworth attended a meeting in Toronto yesterday to hear Hon. J. L. Halsey, minister of finance.

"The Canadian government has told the British government to go ahead and order all the goods it can get in Canada for war-time purposes, and that somehow we will settle the balances of accounts later," Mr. Halsey said in a recent address. "It has been and will continue to be the policy of the government to see that the United Kingdom purchases in this country are not hampered by any lack of Canadian funds."

"This current fiscal year I expect we shall have to provide Britain with $900,000,000 to meet her deficit of Canadian dollars. Perhaps it will be more than that. Whatever it amounts to I am confident that the Canadian people want us to continue to see that Britain is somehow supplied with all that we can provide her both physically and financially in these hours of trial."

"Of course, as I have pointed out on numerous occasions, we must obtain these dollars that we provide to Britain from our taxes or borrowings just as we obtain the funds for our own expenditures."

EAST GWILLIMBURY PLANS TO DO ITS BIT

East Gwillimbury township citizens are determined to get into their stride in the coming war savings drive. The township hasn't made much of a showing so far, due to lack of organization, it is said, and a group of citizens headed by Garry Thompson of Holland Landing are convening a meeting in Sharon hall next Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 7.30 p.m., S.T., to form a township war savings committee.

The plan is to be ready for the drive which begins on Oct. 20. P. J. Tod and W. L. Bosworth, both of Newmarket, joint chairmen for the district, will be present to address the meeting and to help with organization.

FRANK BOYD ENJOYS ARMY LIFE, STUDIES WIRELESS

Signalman F. H. M. Boyd, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Boyd and formerly of The Era, writes from Kingston: "We have a very fine camp down here and our barracks are said to be the finest in Canada. The food is quite good and there is really very little to kick about here."

"At the present time I am taking a course in wireless operating, line telegraphy, etc., and when finished I hope to be a first-class operator."

ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY WHEN TRUCKS COLLIDE

When their trucks collided almost head-on at Oak Ridges last week, William Miller, Toronto, and John Grainger, Newmarket, escaped serious injury, suffering only minor cuts. Police said Miller's truck was proceeding north when it skidded. Grainger's truck was loaded with cattle. Both vehicles were extensively damaged. Traffic Officer Alex. Ferguson of Aurora investigated.

You Have The Fun, War Victims Get Money

Another of those nights of real sport for real lovers of the fistic art is being offered next week by Newmarket Veterans' Association.

The beneficiary will be the Toronto Telegram British War Victims' Fund. It will be a good night for a good cause.

There will be about eight bouts, between fighters of various weight classes, representing Newmarket camp and Camp Borden. Probably they will be all new men to the local fans, but not new men to the fighting game.

Next Wednesday's show in the arena is likely to be the last of the present season. Vice-President Bill White is promoting the event with the support of President Alf Smith and Secretary Jack Duffield. Andrew J. Davis is patron.

Ten prizes are being given away with the admission tickets.

GOES TO SUBURBY

Donations to the fund may be made to any member of the Newmarket Veterans' Association.

Baptized In Church

Great-Grandfire Built

Communion and baptismal service at Mount Pleasant Presbyterian church last Sunday was conducted by Rev. Dr. Carmichael of Toronto. The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stiles, Donald Maxwell, was the only child presented for baptism.

This service recalls the fact that 36 years ago this baby's great-grandfather, Joseph D. Davidson, was largely instrumental in building this church, while both grandfathers were assisting. The child's parents were also baptized in this church.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stiles, Mount Pleasant, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davidson, Newmarket, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stiles for the day.

NON-INTEREST BEARING PATRIOTISM

Not long ago we called attention to the dominion government non-interest bearing loans. The Bank of Canada's report of these loans for September is now on our desk, and we are interested to note what escaped our attention before, that there are two series of certificates issued for these loans, "A," earmarked for prosecution of the war, totalling $56,576 during September, and "B," earmarked for relief of suffering caused by war, totalling $1,083 during September. Another interesting point is that no commission is paid on these subscriptions, which are handled by banks and post offices.

Among interesting subscriptions during September were "A Colored Accountant," $200, bringing his total to $2,600, a $2 loan apparently in trust for a child, bringing another subscriber's total to $6, the Petrolia Lions club, $500, bringing its total to $1,500, and Lake Saskatoon community club, Wemby, Sask., $40.

FARMERS ARE FIGHTERS

"Government shows bad taste in sending out this cartoon," says the Bowmanville Canadian Statesman of a picture of a soldier leaning over a farm fence talking to a youth with a pitchfork. "We've got to fight to save our homes. That's why I've enlisted." So says the soldier to the farmer.

"Here is a pastoral scene which has just come to the Statesman office from a government publicity department at Ottawa," says the Statesman. "This drawing depicts a soldier on leave or on a recruiting mission trying to entice a farmer's son or hired man away from his important job as a food producer. No more eloquent testimony of government policy concerning agriculture could be presented than this official picture. A study of it is particularly recommended for members of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture as ground for protest to the government on general farm policy."

"Many an aging farmer and his weary wife will naturally ask: 'Why is the government so persistent in making a direct appeal to farmers' sons and their hired help, as is shown in this cartoon, when thousands of able-bodied young men in towns and cities are deliberately evading military service by working in factories, shops and other places, many of which are non-essential to war activities?'"

Such propaganda aimed at the farms, which must soon be regarded as part of the front-line, is unfair and unwise, as the Statesman says. We agree with the Statesman, even though we don't agree with the Statesman's implied conclusion that there should be conscription of men for the fighting services.

A WORD ABOUT WINE

A letter directed to us by the Wine Producers Association encloses a little pamphlet containing "some facts about wine." There are two main classes of wine. First mentioned are light, dry wines. "The word 'light' means that it is low in alcohol and 'dry' refers to the presence of little or no sugar. The lack of sweetness and the low content of alcohol permits one to consume it regularly at meals in quantity similar to that of tea or coffee, which it replaces. There are millions of people in the world to whom wine such as this fills a place in their lives almost as important as their daily bread."

Sweet wines "contain more sugar and alcohol than the light, dry wines." In view of this they should be consumed in smaller amount. A fine quality port or sweet sherry, whose flavor and bouquet bring only pleasure if used in moderation, will on the other hand cause intoxication and nausea if consumed in an excessive amount.

The following we quote as a point of view. It is interesting in view of the approaching beverage room vote in Newmarket, for what is said of wine may also be said of beer. "Those who vote against beverage rooms are not necessarily voting against beer but rather against having it thrust upon people in a sales-promoting way. Many of those who will vote against the beverage room no doubt make moderate use of beer in their own homes, but do not wish to be continually saying, 'No, thank you,' to friends who with the best of intentions would continually urge them to go with them to a beverage room."

Here is the point of view of the Ontario wine makers: "Every purchaser of a bottle of wine should bear in mind that the fermented juice of the grape is the most ancient of the alcoholic beverages enjoyed by man. Down through the ages, countless millions of people, from prince to peasant, have enjoyed and benefitted from the regular and proper use of it. Furthermore, those who suffer as a result of over-indulgence in wine as well as in any other food should lay the blame for their condition upon the lack of moderation and common sense rather than upon the product which they have misused."

PARTY POLITICS IN B.C.

Out in British Columbia a provincial election is in progress. The balloting takes place next Tuesday. The betting is with the government (Liberal), which won 31 seats in the last election. The potential opposition comes from Conservatives, who won eight seats the last time, and the C.C.F., who won seven seats. It is interesting to see the ability of men to fit their minds into a particular pattern determined not by themselves but by the party as a whole or the party leader. We suppose that it has to be done, as long as there are spoils to divide, but it would be promising if members of the legislature could sit without any party labels, just as members of our town council do, and be free to do what they think best just as members of our town council are.

It is our considered opinion that municipal government, with its freedom from partisan politics, is better government than provincial government or federal government, and we say that with cognizance of the strengths and failings of municipal government.

HAD PRINCIPLES

Executors of Sir Herbert Holt's will have issued a statement to the effect that estimates of his wealth have been grossly exaggerated and denying that he transferred any property to Nassau, the Bahamas, to avoid Canadian taxation. The executors say: "Others may have transferred property and assets out of Canada to escape taxation here, but Sir Herbert refused even to consider the advisability of following their examples. He took the position that such wealth as he had accumulated had been accumulated in Canada and would remain within the jurisdiction of the laws of this country."

Yes, others have transferred Canadian-accumulated wealth out of Canada to avoid Canadian taxation, some of it gold dug out of the Canadian earth. There is nothing we can do about it, of course, but we are all told on good authority that there is little real happiness for those who put the accumulation or preservation of wealth before everything else in their lives. While we do not believe that any one citizen should wield the tremendous power that Sir Herbert Holt had, we can see that he probably led a happy life. If he had one principle which prevented him from exporting his capital to avoid taxation, he probably had others. And in principles, not in riches, lies happiness.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

THANKFUL

(Amherstburg Echo)

Canadians will not have to search their minds very much this year to find something to be thankful for on our annual Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 13. From the most humble person in the land to the highest and mightiest we can all be thankful we are Canadians, citizens of a free country, part of a great Commonwealth of Nations that is now a bulwark against world enslavement. We can be thankful for our empire leaders and for our brave young men who are risking their lives that their homeland might be free from ruthless aggressors. We can be thankful for the bountiful crops of this year and for the fact that we can till the soil and reap the harvest in peace; content in the knowledge that no invading hordes will wreck our green fields or lay waste our homes and properties. We can be thankful for the sea dogs of the empire that prowl the seas and for the eagle eyes of the air-men who patrol the skies protecting us from murderous gangsters of nazism and fascism. We can be grateful that we are allowed to worship as we wish and to be able to bow the knee to the Almighty in humble thanksgiving.

COL. DREW'S SUGGESTION

(Orillia Packet and Times)

Col. Drew has apparently made something of a hit in England by his suggestion made in a B.B.C. broadcast, that British panzer troops should be sent to Canada to get their training for the invasion of the continent which military men believe must come before the Nazis are finally overthrown. The reasons are similar to those that inspired the Commonwealth air training plan—wide spaces for training, undisturbed by attacks from the air. Of course, there is the need for transporting large numbers of men back and forth across the Atlantic. But this would be offset to a large extent, if not entirely, by the saving of transport for food and other requisites which have to be imported into Britain. Aside from the need for strong naval forces for conveying the transports, there would probably be little difficulty in finding ships for the westward journey to Canada.

Lord Beaverbrook's London Express, the Daily Sketch, the London Star and other papers have spoken favorably of the scheme editorially, and it is said to be receiving official consideration. The advantages of the plan are manifest. The difficulties will be best appreciated by those who have to overcome them. One factor that would have stood in the way in the past—the need for bringing over equipment as well as men—no longer exists, now that the United States is turning out tanks and other materials in large quantities. It would be just as easy to deliver these to British troops in Canada, and afterwards send them overseas, as to send them over to Britain for training purposes. The decision must rest with the war office, which knows the conditions much better than any outsider. But if it should be found that Canada can aid the hard pressed mother country in this as in other matters, the people of this country will consider it a privilege and an honor to have the British armored units get their training here.

TWO LADIES INTERVIEW A YOUNG TRAVELLER

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"A little raw today, isn't it?" Mrs. Woody Woodpecker commented to Mrs. Nutty Nuthatch, as they "went over" a big evergreen tree.

"Yes, it's chilly, but the trees are certainly lovely," replied her friend. "Nutty and I took a bit of a hike over into King township yesterday and really, it's unspeakably beautiful. It almost took my breath away."

"Did you see anyone interesting?" inquired Mrs. Woody. "One is apt to bump into queer birds these days."

"We ran into a big flock of Bluebirds," Mrs. Nutty said. "And they were calling, too. We had quite a nice chat with some of them."

"You wouldn't suspect that there were so many Bluebirds in the country until you see them flocking in the autumn, would you?" the Woodpecker said, as she paused from her vigorous pecking at the tree bark. "In the spring and summer we only see the occasional lovely flash of blue, or hear that sweet warble of theirs across some field."

"One of the Bluebirds told us of a sad thing that had happened yesterday morning," the Nuthatch told her friend.

"What was it?" asked Mrs. Woody. "The usual, I suppose?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Nutty briefly. "A group of several Hawks followed their Bluebird party and grabbed two of the young Bluebirds with no trouble at all. They were all feeling rather badly about the incident, but then, I suppose, we must expect that sort of thing to happen these days."

"Oh, yes, it's an old story, but it never fails to make me feel sad," sighed Mrs. Woody.

"Surely you ladies aren't feeling sad, are you?" a new voice broke in and a pretty Sparrow hopped onto a small bush near the other birds.

"Well, I declare!" exclaimed Mrs. Nutty. "We're certainly delighted to see you, my dear, even if you are a young one and we've never met you before."

"Dear me," murmured Mrs. Woody in embarrassment. "I'm not just sure who you are. You're some kind of Sparrow, of course, with a reddish brown back, a yellowish spot in front of your eye and a suggestion of a white throat, but it certainly isn't very distinct."

"I can't blame you for not knowing me," said the young Sparrow. "But I'm sure you'll know my father when you see him. He's down there on the grass with those other birds. See him just beside that big bush to the right?"

"Let me study him a moment," Mrs. Woody said as she turned around to look. "Oh, good gracious, I won't need to do that now that I see him, though—black and white on his head, a white throat and quite a yellow spot in front of his eye, and white wing bars like his father, the White-crowned Sparrow. He's Mr. White-throat, the Canada bird, of course. How glad we are to see you folks here again. Have you learned to sing your lovely family song yet—sweet, sweet, Can-a-da Can-a-da, Can-a-da?"

"I wish I could say I had, but I really haven't," admitted the young White-throated Sparrow with a laugh. "I can get as far as 'sweet, sweet, Can' and then I seem to get stuck and can't go on. However, I'm determined to learn it right, and I know I'll succeed soon."

"My father and mother feel rather ashamed of the sounds we White-throats make when we come down to the cultivated sections of Canada in the autumn," the Sparrow continued. "They say that all folks hear are the short snatches of song of the young ones and they don't always realize what a beautiful sweet song the White-throat family has. However, when we all come back next spring we will be perfect singers and then you'll really hear something."

"Where were you born?" asked Mrs. Nutty of the young bird. "Up in Haliburton county," answered the Sparrow. "We had a lovely childhood up in the north. Our home was in a big, tangled thicket on the edge of a field and we had a grand summer. I hated to leave, but the older birds insisted that we should start on this southward journey that it seems we have to make. And I must admit that it's very nice farther south and we are finding plenty of weed seeds to eat."

"And I'm sure no one around here will be sorry to see you come and help eat the weed seeds up—the farmers and gardeners, I mean," said Mrs. Woody.

"Are any of your first cousins, the White-crowned Sparrows, with your crowd?" asked Mrs. Nuthatch. "They look so much like you folks, with their pretty white and black caps—but then, they haven't got your white throats, of course."

"There are one or two of them with us right now," the Sparrow answered, "but they may rejoin a flock of their own kind any time. The best way of spotting us for sure, young and old, is the yellow spot in front of our eyes," he added. "They say that we young ones look a lot like the Swamp Sparrows, but, of course, we have the yellow spots and our backs are redder. And our parents always have the white throats, which none of the other Sparrows have."

"You seem to be a very well educated and intelligent young fellow," Mrs. Nutty said approvingly. "Mrs. Nutty said approvingly. "You're sure to tell your parents that we enjoyed our chat with you."

"I will," said the young Sparrow cheerfully as he flew back to rejoin his comrades.

THANKSGIVING

By Isabel Inglis Colville

Now, as another Thanksgiving Day sinks behind the horizon of the past, one thinks of the few nations where a national Thanksgiving could still be held.

Prior to the war, most of the European nations held harvest festivals which combined the religious observance of our Thanksgiving Day and the festive spirit of a carnival.

In some parts of England the children of each parish wove themselves crowns of flowers, then marched to the church where the crowns were hung in a screen made for the purpose, and after a service of thanksgiving for a bountiful harvest children and grown-ups adjourned to some pleasant place where games were played and often a little fair was held, with a display of fruit, flowers and vegetables.

But I think that Canada and the United States are the only countries where a day of national thanksgiving is a part of the yearly scheme of things.

Norway, Belgium, Holland and Denmark were all countries where people rejoiced in little festivities and where a simple piety marked the lives of the peasant-folk.

Can one imagine any festivity or any service of thanksgiving taking place in these martyred countries?

Their harvest is robbed before they can reap the benefit of their toil; their lives are one long series of being repressed and spied upon, with the constant fear of being haled away to concentration camps as a black background.

No person can live continually with fear and oppression and not become bitter, and so lose the instinctive turning to God in thankfulness for mercies received.

Italy, France and Spain, where once sunshine and laughter held sway and all the pleasant fruits of the earth abounded, are torn with dissension or under the sway of the Gestapo and secret agents of all kinds.

Czechoslovakia, Poland and Finland, where a democratic form of government was beginning to make of these nations an example of what that form of government can do, are now writhing beneath the heel of a ruthless conqueror.

No room, one would think, in any of these countries for national thanksgiving and yet in Denmark, Holland, Norway, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Finland, is the consciousness of a background of good government, of lack of evil intention towards their neighbors, and of a slowly kindled flame of righteous indignation, which will give them strength to rise again when the time is ripe above the evil tide which has engulfed them, and feel ready to join a decent world fellowship.

In our own land we look over a land tarred in all the gorgeous colors of an eastern poet's dream.

"With what a glory comes and goes the year," wrote someone, and when one looks at the flaming maples, like torches lighting the landscape, at the golden olms, as if they had stored the summer sunshine to lighten grey days, and more homely, look at your cellar, gleaming with shining jars of almost jewel-like splendor, one can say, with the poet,

"We thank Thee, Lord, for this fair earth,

The glittering sky, the silver sea,

For all their beauty, all their worth,

Their life and glory flow from Thee."

War planes, dropping no bombs, fly over skies; tanks rattle over our roads, but no hail of bullets fly from them; soldiers march our highways, but instead of throwing bombs and hand grenades they sing the songs we all know—we are OF the war, but not IN it, and our thankfulness for our peaceful land, while deep and heartfelt, should be tempered by the thought of others' sufferings and by the thought of what we can do to alleviate them, and also by the salutary reminder that though as yet no enemy has neared our shores, time alone can assure us of immunity.

We have so much to be thankful for, that it makes one ashamed not to be MORE thankful. We can give thanks for the ideals that are the watchwords of the fighting democracies and pray we may be made worthy to help in some small way in the final restoration of the rights of all men, and to take our place when the great day of thanksgiving for final and just victory arrives.

GEORGINA LADY MAKES QUILT FOR LONDON

The Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond St., London, England, which was wrecked by bombs, received a little help from Newmarket at the time of the Lions club carnival.

Mrs. C. C. Richardson dropped in at The Era office last week with a cheque for $5 which the Lions club will add to the fund.

The Era this week is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. E. L. Binnington, R.R. 2, Uxbridge, asking further publicity for this hospital's plight, and stating: "Being very interested in this appeal from the most outstanding children's hospital in the world, I have made a wine-colored satin comforter, which is to be raffled off in the near future."

"My home is in Georgina but I am in Toronto at present endeavoring to get as much sale for the tickets as possible," she continues. "I should be glad if you would bring this appeal to your readers' attention and will send tickets gladly if there is any response. They sell at three for a quarter."

The Era has published the letter from the hospital's chairman before, but two paragraphs are repeated: "For years men and women had toiled devotedly and unceasingly to rebuild this famous children's hospital. The greater part of a beautiful modern building had been completed at a cost of $350,000. Then in the night, came the bombs. Doctors and nurses and the hospital staff fought a fire the flames of which roared into the air. They battled through the roaring floods shoulder deep from the burst water mains. Every baby in the hospital was saved. By a miracle not a single little life was lost."

"The wreckage remains and amid the wreckage the hospital that has never closed its doors since the day it was first opened in 1852 carries on."

Mrs. Binnington's Toronto address is 700 Markham St., Toronto.

John was lost in thought for a few minutes. He did not like the name.

"That's nice," he said presently. "My first sweetheart was named Irongen, and shall take it as a compliment."

"We will call her Mary, after my mother," was the tart reply.

Lewis Raxlen, Toronto.

"What wedding?" replied Mrs. Merriman.

"Didn't he tell you about a wedding that took place in Pottageville?" "He told me a lady gave him a glass of wine."

"How did you feel when he told you that?" "I told him he shouldn't have taken it when I wasn't there."

"When did the first argument start?" "I don't know."

"What time did you get the blow?" "I don't remember."

"Do you remember using the axe?" "I use it to split wood."

"Do you remember using it to split your husband?" "No."

"Did the police come to see you about laying your husband's cheek open?" "No."

"To the hatchet kept in the woodshed?" "Yes."

"I am suggesting to you that you were in the woodshed with the axe and were going to attack him when he tried to take it away?" "That's not true."

"Didn't you drink half the bottle of wine?" "No, I put it in a bottle in my shopping bag and he took it out along with my purse and money."

"How much money did you have?" "Two dollars. I paid the feed man the rest of it."

"I was driving east from Schomberg to Aurora and Mrs. Merriman was on the road and waved to us to stop," testified W. J. Waters, a banker from Toronto.

"I noticed she was all covered with blood and was still bleeding quite profusely. I asked her what happened and she said her husband had hit her with an axe. I got out of the car and opened the rear door and had Mrs. Merriman get in. When she got on the seat Mr. Merriman, who was standing up the road a short distance away, came over to the car. She said, 'That's the man who did it. He's my husband.'"

"Was there any evidence that Mrs. Merriman had been drinking?" asked the crown.

"No," replied the witness.

"This man came over to the car and Mrs. Merriman said, 'That is the man who did it with an axe. He's my husband,'" testified A. T. Whitehead, barrister of Toronto.

"I thought there was something peculiar about the look of this man. He had a stupid grin, was stary eyed and didn't say anything."

"What condition was Mrs. Merriman in?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"She was quite normal, and very quiet. I watched her on the way to Aurora and thought perhaps she might pass out. Her hair was matted and her dress soaked in blood. She told me the name of the doctor and answered any questions I asked her."

"On Saturday, Oct. 4, from information received, I went to the home of the accused at Pottageville in company with Chief Dunham of Aurora," testified Sergeant Sidney Barraclough.

"I had a warrant for accused's arrest. He met us at the door and asked us what we wanted. I told him what had taken place and he said, 'You've got the warrant for the wrong person. It should be my wife. She struck me on the wrist, then ran into the gate and struck her head.'"

"We went to the woodpile and I asked him if he was sure that he hadn't hit her with a mallet and he said, 'No, she had a mallet and threw it over the fence. He said the fell over a block of wood and struck her head on this mallet. We went back into the house and I started to read the warrant and he became quite abusive, trying to put Chief Dunham and myself out of the house. He refused to dress up and we had to take him by the arms. He was going to take a warrant from me and we had to handcuff him. He seemed very much under the influence of liquor. Sunday I found this mallet in the rain-barrel. Later at the Don jail he gave me a statement."

"The statement told that an argument had started about the wine and Mrs. Merriman had grabbed the axe. Mr. Merriman took it away from her and threw it in the garden. She picked it up and started accused again, and in trying to get the axe from her, it fell and struck Mrs. Merriman on the head. He had washed her head off and she disappeared, and that was the last he saw her."

Chief Dunham corroborated the evidence of Sgt. Barraclough.

"The argument started when I told her the neighbors had given me some wine," testified the accused.

"She said, what did I take wine from other women for? She attacked me once before with the axe and cut my face. This time she got the axe and I ran out to take it away. She ran to the mailbox, fell down and I took it away from her and threw it in the garden. She found it and came to the back door with it again and had it up all ready to strike me. I grabbed it away and herself getting it from her she cut herself. I told her to come in the house and be quiet and she got out."

"Is this statement true?" asked the crown attorney. "Yes," replied accused.

"Then you didn't see her get in the car?" "No. I never saw those gentlemen before."

"Even though they swear they saw you standing by the car, and your wife swears she saw you, you deny being there?" "I don't think I was."

"Your wife works hard all week, brings the money home and you beat her up?" "I never see the money."

"Did you ask her to bring home a bottle of wine?" "No, I didn't ask her. She brings one every week and takes as much as I do."

"Where did you put the axe?" "In the rain-barrel."

"Did you put it there so the police wouldn't find it?" "No, I put it there so my wife wouldn't find it."

"Mrs. Merriman was brought to my office by a couple of gentlemen," stated Dr. J. L. Urquhart of Aurora.

"She had a three-cornered wound right to the skull, one inch each way. There was a good deal of puffiness around the cut and an artery was cut. She bled very freely, and was very weak when I got her to the hospital. She made a very quick recovery."

"Could the blow have been caused by the hatchet dropping a couple of inches?" asked the crown.

"No, I wouldn't think so," replied Dr. Urquhart.

"A struggle for the hatchet and a good deal of wrenching might cause it, but not the weight of it."

"Was she hit by the blunt side of the hatchet?" asked Magistrate Woodliffe.

"I don't know if she was hit by the hatchet or not, but if she was it would be the blunt side."

"In this case I was impressed with the evidence by Mrs. Merriman," commented his worship.

"She told her story in a straightforward manner. I accept her evidence as the truth. I am under the impression that Mr. Merriman knew very little of what occurred, and believe he was under the influence of liquor. Although he was present when Mrs. Merriman got in the car, he has no recollection of this taking place. There will be a conviction."

"I would like to suggest because of the circumstances in the case, that your worship see it imposed a fine," stated defence counsel.

"It wasn't penalized. The complainant had had a drink. She brought the wine home, and if she hadn't brought it, this would probably not have happened."

"This is much too serious an assault," replied his worship. "This woman might have died to death."

Peter Sapinsak of Lloydtown was fined $10 and costs on a charge of careless driving.

"I was driving north on the 10th concession of King on Sept. 29 at about 10.15 a.m.," testified Frank Rowley of Lloydtown.

"As I approached the corner this chap came from the east, cut the corner short to make a left-hand turn and struck the right front corner of my car."

Constable Watt, who investigated, testified that the impact took place right on the intersection, six feet from the east ditch.

"I was making a left-hand turn and couldn't see the corner on account of the lilac bush, house and garage," said the accused. "Everyone says it is the worst corner in the county."

"You must keep on your own side of the road," warned his worship. "You are driving blindly around that corner on the wrong side of the road."

Carman Rutledge of East Gwillimbury was fined $10 and costs on a charge of careless driving.

Mr. Rutledge's car, which was on the wrong side of the road between the 4th and 5th concessions of Whitechurch, collided with a car driven by T. Boake of Stouffville, causing $50 damage to the Boake car.

"I was coming over the hill and didn't see the car until short notice," said accused. "I was using the beaten path with loose stones on top."

"You were very foolish to drive on the left-hand side of the road," admonished his worship. "You might expect to meet another car coming over the hill."

DANCE IN NEW BARN

The big barn dance held in the new steel barn on the farm of Fennell Rothwell at Snowball and sponsored by the Women's Institute was a grand success. A very large crowd enjoyed dancing to the music of Russ Creighton and his variety dance orchestra. The members of the Women's Institute were very grateful to all who helped to make the evening such a success. Proceeds will be used for war work and the war victims.

The hot turkey supper under the auspices of the Snowball Women's Association will be held in Fennell Rothwell's new barn on the third concession, just south of the church, on Oct. 16. Supper is to be served from 5 to 8 o'clock, standard time.

CANADA'S telephone traffic is climbing to new peaks! Engaged in call-out war effort Canadians are depending on telephone facilities more than ever. That's why telephone workers are determined to maintain the fastest, most efficient service under all conditions.

They are especially grateful for the sympathetic co-operation of all telephone users. Subscribers can aid in making severely-taxed telephone facilities yield maximum service...

- By speaking distinctly directly into the mouthpiece
- By answering promptly when the bell rings

Please be sure, also, to replace the receiver on the hook. Over 120,000 times last year, telephones were reported "out of order" because of receivers left off or improperly replaced.

These things are what we mean by "co-operation".

Arrangements are being made whereby the local company of the Queen's York Rangers will store their rifles and machine guns in the Aurora post-office.

ST. ANDREW'S DEFEAT U. T. S. RUGBY TEAM

St. Andrew's College firsts on Tuesday afternoon surprised the critics when they downed Lou Hayman's unbeaten University of Toronto school's team 11-9.

It was the first defeat for the U.T.S. team in five starts and last week in Toronto they had defeated the local school 6-0. St. Andrew's, except for the last period, were always in the driver's seat.

In the first quarter Sabiston kicked for a single after the Andreams had made three first downs to the Toronto one. In the second quarter the same player booted another. A fumble on the 15-yard line gave St. Andrew's the ball but they were held to no score on three downs. Then Bark booted from behind his own line and Chipman, who caught the ball at the 35-yard line, lateralled to Joliffe, who went over for a touch on a brilliant run. Chipman converted.

In the third quarter Don Bark kicked a field goal which bounded over off the crossbar. Early in the last quarter Chipman booted a field goal and then U.T.S. marched 50 yards for a major score, which D. Bark converted. With five minutes to go U.T.S. had the ball on their own 45, and advanced to the St. Andrew's 40, where they were stopped cold, and forced to kick.

St. Andrew's hung on in the final few minutes with grim determination. Milligan, Joliffe and Chipman were the three stars for St. Andrew's.

BENVILLE DECLARED CYCLING CHAMPION

Bob Benville has been declared champion for 1941 of the Aurora Cycling club and will hold the Dawson trophy for a year following the final tabulation of individual standings by the club executives which met at the home of President John Offord on Wednesday evening.

Benville will receive a miniature of the trophy for his permanent possession. Jim Hanson was runner-up, with Harold Foster in third position. Both boys will receive medals. This is the third year of competition, Cliff Chapman, now in the R.C.A.F., being the winner the two years previous.

Kay of Schomberg, has received an autographed photograph of the Duke of Kent, along with a letter from the duke's secretary stating the former's regrets that he was unable to visit the training centre. Harry attended high school here.

Hanson, Benville, Star In 25-Mile Cycling Contest

Jim Hanson, Bob Benville and Lance Pugh were the three-star performers in the 25-mile road race held by the Aurora cycling club, with the sanction of the C.W.A., on Thanksgiving day.

Twenty-one of the best riders in the province faced Starter Bill Elder and when the grueling course of five laps, from Aurora to Snowball and return, had been completed all but four were still in action.

Hanson and Benville finished one, two, in a photo finish that had the spectators cheering. Only inches separated the two boys, who gave everything they had. Hanson had a one minute handicap over Benville, who took second place in the race and second place in the time prizes.

Lance Pugh of Oshawa, the search rider and provincial champion, finished ninth in the race, but first in time. He gave up 13 minutes in handicaps. He gave seven minutes to Hanson and six to Benville. His time for the course was 68 minutes, 43 and two-fifths seconds. Benville's time was 70 minutes, 58 and three-fifths seconds.

Hero Brooks of Toronto, who finished fourth, took the third prize for time, with 71 minutes, 32 seconds. Hanson's time was 71 minutes, 58 and three-fifths seconds. Great credit is due all the North York riders for their fine showing. Harold Foster, Aurora, was third, Floyd Denne of Newmarket, fifth, Bill Heath, Aurora, eighth, while Norman Rank of Aurora and Ed. Mosley of Newmarket finished 10th and 11th. All, with the exception of Foster, are junior riders. Rank won the special prize for the youngest rider. Hanson the winner, rode in the junior class last year.

As the turn was made in the third lap John McFarland of Toronto was unable to make it and was forced out as his front wheel crumpled against the curb and he was thrown heavily. He received medical aid and suffered a sprained wrist. Jimmy DeBenedetti was forced to stop for repairs to his wheel and was virtually eliminated. On the first leg of this lap Norman Foster was forced out with cramps, as was Red Brown of Toronto.

Final standing saw them finish in this order: Jim Hanson, Bob Benville, Harold Foster, Herb Brooks, Toronto, Floyd Denne, Johnny Lyons, Toronto, Gus Hogen, Hamilton, Bill Heath, Lance Pugh, Oshawa, Bob Anderson, Toronto, Frank Bull, Oshawa, Cliff Pringle, Oshawa, Tom Hayes, Toronto, Ernie Dickson, Toronto, Julius Charbonneau, Toronto, Norman Rank, Ed. Mosley.

Officer Alex Ferguson, and Chief Constable Fisher Dunham policed the course perfectly and traffic did not interfere with the riders. Dr. J. L. Urquhart was on hand to look after the injured. Bill Elder, D. B. McDonald, Sim and George Paekham of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, along with President Jack Offord, Secretary Geo. Spence, Orval Heath and Mickey Smith handled the official duties without an error.

The oldest rider to compete was 53-year-old Gus. Hogbin of Hamilton, while Norman Rank of Aurora was the youngest. Pugh took the Cousins cup for the best time, while every rider won an award. Among those who donated prizes were Capt. Dr. C. R. Boulding, Aurora, Dr. J. L. Urquhart, Aurora, Highland Oil, Aurora, Aurora Four Mills, Silver Brothers, Aurora, H. E. Gilroy, Newmarket, Aurora, Dalry, Dr. E. J. Henderson, Aurora, J. L. Spillette, Newmarket, R. C. Morrison, Newmarket, J. F. Willis, Aurora, Smith's Hardware, Newmarket, P. M. Thompson, Aurora, Fred Rowland, Aurora, Mary's Fruit Store, Aurora, T. Sisman Shoe Co., Aurora, E. C. Mingay, Aurora, and the Royal Theatre, Aurora. The presentations were made by Jack Offord.

SHOP ENTERED SECOND TIME, GOODS STOLEN

Thieves made their entry into the confectionery and tobacco store of Miss Lorraine Hudson, Yonge street, early Friday morning, and again removed a handpicked lot of cigarettes, tobacco and razor blades.

BOYS INJURED IN THREE-CAR SMASH

Two Aurora young men were severely injured last Thursday evening in three other Aurora residents narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident at the northern limits of the town.

Mrs. Fred White and her son, Arthur, were at the Royal theatre and when they entered their car to return home around 10 p.m., at which time it was raining heavily, they were unable to start the motor. Mrs. White's son, Alan, and his two companions, Reg. Bennett and Murray Allen, came to the rescue with Bennett's car, driven by Allen, by giving the White car a push up Yonge St. The bumpers of the two cars became locked and the cars were stopped at the side of the road to unlock them, when a car driven by Charles Ingram of Newmarket, which was travelling north, crashed into the rear of the Bennett car.

Murray Allen, who was in the rear car, received a broken bone in his ankle, cuts and bruises. Alan White suffered shock, cuts and bruises, while Bennett escaped uninjured. In the White car, which was in front, the driver, Arthur White, received fractured bones in his back as well as cuts and bruises. Mrs. White was thrown from her car but escaped unscathed, except for shock. Passing motorists took the boys to Dr. G. W. Williams, who treated them.

Arthur White and Murray Allen were taken to York county hospital. According to witnesses the tail lights in the Bennett and White cars were lit. The Bennett car was the mostly heavily damaged of the three. Constable Aubrey Fleury and Constable James Goulding are investigating.

EVERSLEY RETIRED KING TEACHER MARKS 94TH YEAR

The correspondent is thankful for this bright, beautiful Thanksgiving day. The world is a beautiful place after all, and autumn is certainly a season of beauty and fruitfulness. May our Thanksgiving continue in thanksgiving!

Mrs. Isa Ferguson of Richmond Hill, her son, Scott, instructor of aviation in Malton airport, and Mrs. Ferguson, of Toronto, visited at "Scots Wha Hae" on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson gave a good Thanksgiving service at Eversley on Sunday morning.

Miss Elizabeth Timline, retired King school-teacher, celebrated her 94th birthday on Friday and received many remembrances and calls from friends. She expects to try walking in a short time. Her hip bone has apparently knitted well. Mr. Hiram A. Clark, well-known throughout the county, celebrated his birthday on Sunday.

Truck-loads of crates filled with choicest cauliflower come this way from the Holland marsh on their way to Toronto. Large, perfect cauliflower are now cheap and abundant.

Eversley Young People's held their monthly social meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowen on Tuesday evening. The attendance was small. Miss Ethel Ferguson presided and Miss Marie Ball was in charge of the program. Miss Edith Bovaird read a good article on prayer. Miss Marie Ball contributed some ridiculous meanings for a list of words and read a very amusing story. Miss A. A. Ferguson told snake stories, then explained references in the Bible on serpents, ending with the application of "When Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness." Mrs. Roy Bowen conducted a contest. A social tea hour was much enjoyed.

Among the many people who called at "Scots Wha Hae" on Thanksgiving day were Rev. and Mrs. T. L. Williams of Uxbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rae and two young sons of Toronto.

LAYS TWO AT A TIME

Mrs. Wesley Hayes of Keswick brought in a real novelty this week to The Era office. It was an egg laid by one of her six-months-old pullets, which was large enough to be a turkey's egg, and when cracked open was found to contain a small egg inside, complete with shell.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Herbie Cain, dynamic wingman and centre of the champion Boston Bruins, reports for another season's training at Hershey, Pennsylvania, next Saturday. The Bruins are later reporting than any of the other N.H.L. clubs, but they will be ready to open the season until the eighth, a week after the others. Art Ross knows his business, said Herbie. "We always start the season behind the others in condition. The boss likes to see us round into shape gradually. A Boston team seldom goes state or far from the stretch. We wouldn't argue with that statement, for no team in years has had the stretch fight like the teams from Beantown produce annually. We asked Herbie about the Bruins' prospects this year and he opined as how they would be in there all the way. "Ferry Reardon is the only one we have lost from last season, by reason of the Canadian military laws, and there are several good youngsters on our farm teams. The Kraut line, however, have started on their American papers and so would be eligible for the draft over there. The same thing applies to Frankie Brimsek, who is American born, and the loss of any of these fellows, particularly Frankie, would make things tough. The club doesn't get any exemptions in the States and these four all have numbers and might be called in mid-season."

Dave Kerr, now on the retired list, will be missed by the Rangers, sez Herbie. "I always found Dave tough to beat. They said he wasn't as good as usual last year, but I didn't notice any difference. Each player finds some goals hard to beat than an other. An all-star team chosen by players finds them all named somewhere. Broda of the Leafs, who was really hot last season, never presented any particular trouble for me if I had an opening, but to many he was unbeatable. Omar Kelly, who is replacing Kerr, is a pretty cocky kid. He was at camp with us and was sure he was going to make the grade. He has a nice record but it will be hard to fill Kerr's pads."

Cain had a good word for Harry Frost, the new winger from the Hershey club, who is receiving a trial with the Toronto Leafs. "Harry is a good boy, but not very sturdily built. He looks like a beanpole, for he is long and gangly, but he can really go. He has had a great season in the minors and has been up with us but didn't stick. He may be just what the Leafs need, if he can stand the graft."

Herbie is reporting for his ninth season in the big league and at the 29 mark he looks good for many more years. Plenty of golf over the local course and hardball in the Newmarket town league have kept him in great shape, plus, of course, clean living. There aren't many athletic heroes whose private lives set a better example for the kids to follow than the genial Newmarket lad. Happy hunting this year Herbie!

Monday night finds the local hockey solons getting together to discuss the pros and cons of the past and present seasons. Jimmy Walker is urging all interested to be present and is extending a special invitation to Newmarket sportsmen to attend. The place is the town hall and the time eight o'clock. Charlie Rowntree and Vic Giovanelli are two of the Newmarket men who are planning to attend. Prospects for a strong team look very good, but the O.H.A. grouping available may present some difficulty. If you don't attend the meeting you have no right to squawk afterwards about the officers elected.

Gus Hogben of Hamilton, the oldest rider in the Thanksgiving cycling classic on Monday, attracted a great deal of attention for more than one reason. Gus is but 63 years of age, has only one good hand and finished in seventh position close behind the leaders. Hogben, who last year won the 60-mile Ontario championship, is a mainstay of the cycling game and a remarkable man.

Born in England, he started in bike races here in 1909 and for the next five years was a standout competitor. Campaigned Withelm on the scene and Gus decided he'd have to do something about it, so he joined the 10th battalion. At Hill 60 a shell exploded and Gus woke in hospital to find his right arm gone four inches below the elbow.

After the war he obtained a hooked appliance for his arm, but it took a lot of courage to try it out on a wheel. He didn't intend to ride in races but just for exercise, so it was not until 1931 he entered competition again after an absence of 17 years. He did so well and his arm seemed to navigate pretty well, so that he soon got back his old confidence and now, for distances which to you and I seem like a hopeless task, Hogben mows them down with machine-gun precision.

Next week he rides in a 100 mile jaunt. "I like the races against time and the longer the better," Gus told yours truly. "Cycling keeps a man fit and is not a young man's game either. The old joints aren't much good for the sprints, but they still have durability, so there is a place for both young and old. I ride for the fun and exercise, but naturally I like to win."

Gus' son, Steve, is the present Ontario one-mile junior champion, and he is on active service with the navy now. We'd like to be as active at 63 as friend Hogben. Maybe he has something with that bike business.

Doug Gillespie, the Orangethorpe boy who spelled final for the first Aurora attempt at a lunar hockey crown, has joined the 30th battery (Connie Smythe's). Gillespie afterwards played with Runnymede and Marlborough and is just 21 now. He played lacrosse with Etobicoke Indians last year.

Mekey Smith pulled a fast one by riding the 100 mile jaunt on Pelly with Miss Evelyn Stewart. Herbie Cain was best man for Smitty, who, along with Mrs. Smith, was receiving congrats from the lads on Monday here at the bike race. We hope this doesn't mean retirement for "Mr. Eves" from hockey, cycling and baseball. Sylvanus Apps, who, as we told you, received three hooks recently from the Toronto Scottish, is now enrolled in the office-school course at the 21st grade school at Fort York. Apps is attending classes on Sunday morning and Tuesday night. Apps will be available for the Leafs for this season but next year will probably be a different story.

Richmond Hill lawn bowlers deserve a bit of credit for the amount expended for war savings stamps this year. The club bought no less than $185 worth to distribute as bowling prizes this year. It is a nice practical way to contribute to Canada's war effort while having the usual fun. The other clubs in the district did the same thing, too, but we haven't their figures. There's no reason club secretaries should hide their efforts. Roughly we would estimate over $1,000 was spent on war savings stamps by the clubs of the district and no one suffered.

Penning will be back in junior C hockey this year and might possibly be hooked up in a group with the locals. The club nearly had to move over to Millard to play their games, as a deal was struck about completed whereby the local arena would have been used in the war effort. Now that is all off, so the boys will perform in their banalistic structure once again.

Charlie Doane, a lad from Bradford, is entitled to a bit of attention. Charlie, who was one of the outstanding athletes at Bradford high school field day, tossed the javelin 109' 7", which is a pretty fair bit of work for a youngster in the intermediate class.

Vic Cannatta of the Irish regiment, who is a member of the Elm Grove A.C. and said to be some pumpkins with his dukes, is the boy that has been matched with Bob Benville on the Fort York sports card next Saturday. Benville, however, has met boys just as tough and since he is in good condition can be depended upon to do his best in the 135 lb. class. The Irish regiment tops the field with six entries. The Yorks and Englancers have two each, and a single-ton has been received from the Scottish and Royals.

Tom Flommerfelt, who is the official physician for the Ontario Athletic Commission, is official timer and, along with Major Burnett and Lieut. Jack Patterson of the Yorks, will be on hand to see that any injuries will be attended to pronto. Military rules, with the referee out of the ring, are to prevail and Major H. C. Beaumont has been named as the third man. Lawrie of the Engineers and Rapson of the Irish are expected to be the feature of the six-hour card.

Local riders, who numbered eight in the cycling race against 13 of the province's best, did pretty well on Monday. Jim Hanson, with a minute handicap over Bob Benville, finished only two feet in front of the latter. Benville's time was just that minute better. Harold Foster, third, Bud Deane, fifth and Bill Heath, eighth, were right up with the best, while Norm Rank and Ed Mosley, two novices, gamely trailed the field.

Donne showed particular promise in his first race and is a boy to watch in the future. Norman Foster was the only one of the Aurora-Newmarket riders not to finish and cramps forced him out. A milk-shake about two hours before probably did the trick. Eating was something Jim Hanson didn't do for 24 hours before the race and it apparently paid dividends, but when it was all over Jim was ready to tear a steak wide apart.

Lance Pugh, who was the scratch rider, rode a lovely race and his time was two minutes faster than Bob Benville's, his nearest rival. The crowd marvelled at the fair-haired Ontario boy, who nonchalantly started and finished likewise, a picture of perfect motion. Pugh is 21 years of age and has been riding about five years. He is the present all-around Ontario champion, having won all the races but the 25-mile event on Labor Day at Oakawa. He was injured in the latter race, which went to Jules Charbonneau, who finished 10th here. He is a modest fellow, this same Pugh, and abides to talk about himself. Six-day riding is interesting him at present and he is definitely interested in the pro game. Immigration troubles and very little competition in Canada make the modest venture a bit uncertain at present, but the amateur game, with no one in sight to dethrone him, must be getting a bit tiresome.

"I found the course very tough," said Pugh. "It was one of the best I've seen. The fellows have a great country to ride in, but I guess they don't get enough competition. You have some fine riders here, who only need a little more experience."

The time of the race was not record-breaking, but it was considered "good for a tough course" by Bill Elder, well-known Canadian Wheelmen's official.

Jack Offord and all those associated with him are again deserving of orchids for providing a fine day's sport definitely high class, and run without a flaw to mar it.

A free people must INVEST in its own FREEDOM

A Message FROM THE WAR SAVINGS COMMITTEE, OTTAWA

The people of Canada are the most fortunate in the world. Fortunate in the great sweep of space that is ours from ocean to ocean. Fortunate in the vast yield and immense resources of our forests, fields and mines. Fortunate, too, in our democratic institutions. In a word, fortunate in our freedom. This freedom is threatened today as it has never been threatened before. The fall of the British Empire would mean complete dislocation of our unfeathered way of life. Everyone wants this way of life defended - this freedom saved - for our own future and for posterity. The response to every appeal for our defence has been magnificent - heartening to the whole Empire - alarming to Hitler. But the need for weapons of war grows ever more urgent, as the Nazi threat spreads wider over the world.

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us. Invest in War Savings Certificates the dollars you don't need to spend. After Victory, they come back to you with interest. Spend less NOW so that you can spend more THEN, when labour and materials will be available for the things you need. There is no price too high for freedom.

Four Simple Regular Methods of Saving

PAYROLL SAVINGS PLAN - For salary and wage earners. The employee simply signs a Payroll Savings Pledge, turns it in to his pay office, and his employer deducts the pledged amount regularly from his pay.

BANK PLEDGE PLAN - Convenient for business men and women, and others not on a payroll. Simply sign a War Savings Bank Pledge and give it to your bank. The bank will make monthly deductions from your account.

SUPPORT THE WAR WEAPONS DRIVE IN YOUR COMMUNITY Every town and city in Canada will soon conduct a War Weapons Drive. You will be asked to put all you've got behind the campaign in your community. Canada must provide more planes, more ships, more tanks, more guns, more shells. If you are already buying War Savings Certificates - raise your pledge. If you are not, get your dollars working for Victory.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS - A handy instalment plan. Stamp folders may be obtained from Post Offices, Banks and many retail outlets. 16 stamps will buy one $1 Certificate, worth $5 at maturity.

RURAL SAVINGS PLAN - Farmers in receipt of regular payments from co-operatives, creameries, cheese factories, etc., can authorize deductions of any desired amount regularly out of each cheque. Use the Rural Pledge Card.

OPPORTUNITY

Mrs. Hill And The Soldiers
 By E. M. S.

"Ever since the war had started she had wanted to do something for the country and it looked as though the chance had been given her at last."
 Though sadly out of practice of "writing up articles for the paper," or "preparing a paper" for a meeting, the urge had been strong to get at it and "write something," when an unexpected phone call came for a book review or something for the next day—so now "the opportunity."
 Remembering the adage, "Opportunity knocks but once," delay to do first the little things planned for the afternoon seemed excusable, the more so as I remembered about Mrs. Hill and her soldier guests for whom she promptly did so much and found satisfaction as her reward.
 This vivid picture of English life and a number of other stories found in the new booklet, "Come Wind, Come Weather" by Daphne DuMaurier, have been read and reread as just meeting my longing to know more of "the changed attitudes" to life over there.
 To further quote sketches: "Shortly after Christmas, the district was invaded by a mass of troops. At first Mrs. Hill was filled with dismay. The peace of the village would be destroyed. The first reaction was swiftly overcome and trust aside as ungenerous. If these men were willing to risk their lives for her sake and had left home, and work and family because of it, the least she could do was to make some contribution in return.
 "Mrs. Hill summoned up her courage and went down to headquarters to see the C.O.
 "I'd better make you god-mother to about 24 men who are billeted in that empty house, 'Fairlawn,' not far from you," he said. "Perhaps you would call in there some time. They are rather a tough crowd, I hope you don't mind."
 "Of course not," Mrs. Hill answered, but as she walked towards 'Fairlawn' she was conscious of that nervous pain reminiscent of past visits to the dentist.
 "The 'tough crowd' turned out to be a forlorn little group.
 "Come up, any of you, whenever you feel like it," she told them. "I shan't entertain you or anything like that, I just want you to feel the place is there when you want it."
 Yes, Mrs. Hill had made her start towards realizing her desire to do something for her country and the brave boys who were giving up all to do their best to help defend it. Now some of us, and very likely most of us, around Newmarket have a like desire towards country and "the boys and our neighbors." Let us not neglect our opportunity. It too may come suddenly and in an unexpected way.
 But let's see how Mrs. Hill got along: "The men were impressed by the quiet home atmosphere, and by the absence of any 'forced' entertainment for their benefit. She would wander in with tea and sandwiches, and then sit down and talk, asking about their homes and families. Mrs. Hill began to guess something of the fear and anxiety that lay hidden at the back of many of their minds. First the fear of death itself, of pain, of the horrors of war they would shortly be called upon to face. And then the anxiety about those they had left at home.
 "Mrs. Hill listened to each of these stories and gave the best of advice and sympathy, but she knew from her own experience that all the fear, the worries and the anxieties expressed by the men were common to every man and woman of every class, of every race, who had grown up without faith in their Creator. She knew that when self is put first and foremost in life, fear, anxiety and unhappiness march side by side—but that there is another way.
 "So, in her quiet, simple, unaffected way, she told the 'tough crowd' stories from her own experience, while they sat and drank her tea. The response amazed her. They wanted to help, they wanted to learn how to live, and needed a standard to live up to. After a time one of them said to her, 'We've been talking about your way of living. Some of the fellows want to hear more about it. What say we throw a party and you tell us.'
 "All right," said Mrs. Hill, "and I'll get some of my friends to help. Make it next Saturday."
 "That Saturday evening some 50 of the company jammed the drawing room. Some of Mrs. Hill's friends were speaking.
 "There was a private from another unit, a naval lieutenant back from convoy. Then there was a gramophone record in which a cowboy sang a catchy

It was all about a conversation he had with his wise 'Old Horsey,' and the men called for it again and again, and began singing the choruses. 'Old Horsey' said:
 "The trouble with the world is the folks that live in it, They've all learn'd to get an' they've never learn'd to give in it;
 You'll never build a world, a decent sort of world,
 You'll never build a world that way."
 "So the cowboy said that that was the way we were made, and he guessed we'd have to stay that way. But 'Old Horsey' didn't agree, for the third verse went:
 "You're wrong, says my wise old horsey,
 If you're willin' God'll change you right away.
 He'll tidy up your life so your friends won't know you,
 And He'll help you change the world by a plan He'll show you,
 But you've gotta be willin'—an' absolutely willin'—
 For God to hold the reins His way."

"The song seemed to sum it all up. They got hold of Mrs. Hill and her friends and talked to them quietly.
 "Why not try 'listenin' to God'?" said Mrs. Hill.
 "As the days went by the change began to show all around. Corporal had lost his fear of what would happen to his family. The toff of the company was not standoffish any more. Then there was the miner, tough, hard as nails. He used to come in half-seas over night after night. The 'Old Horsey' seemed to take his fancy. He would slip into Mrs. Hill's, take the gramophone to a corner without a word to the others, and put on 'Horsey' over and over again. The company noticed that he went off the drink after that.
 "Mrs. Hill was no angel. She was an ordinary woman. The soldiers were not saints. They were ordinary men. But because she had the courage to break down the barriers of class, of shyness, of fear and ridicule, she had enriched the lives of all these men she had welcomed to the house, and her own life as well. And the C.O. complimented her on their heightened morale.
 "Just before Easter they were ordered abroad. Mrs. Hill stood at her gate and watched them march past. Her 'tough crowd' looked very young, and full of enthusiasm. She wondered if she would ever see any of them again.
 "Since then they have been through the campaign in Flanders, 12 have come back safely. The men told Mrs. Hill that the most remarkable of the party had been the sullen miner.
 "He kept us going all the time," it seemed that on one occasion during the retreat to the coast they had been subjected to very heavy raids. The dive bombers came low. The company took to cover while the enemy aircraft screamed overhead.
 "And what do you think?" said the lance-corporal. "There was Fred, as cool as ice-cream, listening to God in all that din. I tell you I got up close to him."
 "What's the orders?" I asked.
 "Don't be afraid, and look after the chaps," said Fred, "and I'm not afraid. Now you try."
 "And did you," said Mrs. Hill.
 "Sure," grinned the lance-corporal. "I waited a minute, and something said to me, 'Don't get hot up.' And then we got the chaps singing 'Wise Old Horsey.'
 "Just then a fellow come up beside us, who'd got cut off from the rest of his lot. Different company to us. 'What's that you're singing?' he said. 'I've never heard it before. I like it.'
 "We ain't very honest, and we ain't very lovin',
 An' times we're pretty dirty,
 an' times we're pretty show-
